Campus Leaders Launch Drive for New Students

Two Faculty Head State Reserve Unit

The only administrative reserve unit in the state is headed by two members of the MSU faculty. Dr. Earl Lory of the chemistry department, with the rank of major, is commanding officer of the 6233rd organized reserve induction and examining unit and Prof. Carling I. Malouf of the anthropology department is the executive officer.

University men and women may join the unit, according to Professor Malouf, with ample opportunity for advancement.

The unit meets four times a month at Fort Missoula, drawing a day's pay for each meeting. In the summer the unit gets two weeks of active duty taking over the duties of the Butte induction station. The reservists get full pay and allowances for the two-week tour of duty.

Men joining this reserve induction and examining unit would receive consideration for ROTC training in determining their reserve rank. If drafted, they would take their reserve rank automatically after basic training.

Women who join would be WAC reservists with opportunities for advancement as typists, clerks, and administrative workers.

A state-wide student recruitment program was launched by student leaders in a conference at the University president's office yesterday afternoon.

Bill Reynolds, ASMSU president and chairman of the student leader group, got the ball rolling by appointing a committee to arrange for student envoys to appear at 180 Montana high schools during the University vacation period.

Endowment Foundation To Meet

The first regular meeting of the Endowment foundation will convene at the University Dec. 16, according to Andy Cogswell, public service division director. The meeting is being held to work out a general policy, design money raising bond programs, and to determine how funds will be handled.

The board, elected during homecoming week, is headed by Sid G. Stewart, Anaconda, president, and Guy E. Sheridan, Missoula, secretary-treasurer. The trustees include J. E. Corette Jr., Butte; A. T. Hibbard, Helena; Mrs. K. H. Harstad, Glendive; T. E. Hodges, Great Falls; D. Gordon Rognlien, Kalispell; William J. Jameson, Billings; Carl McFarland, Missoula; Claget T. Sanders, Sidney; and Kenneth C. Duff, Missoula.

Appointed to this committee were Peggy Clapp, Missoula, chairman; Bob Newlin, Lewistown; Audrey Olson, Billings; John Badgley, Missoula; and Bill McMaster, Butte.

The general outline of the plan as decided upon was this: From one to six University students will be selected in each high school area to carry out a college counselor or assembly session in their home town high schools during the first week in January. It was advised that the University envoys point their program toward high school seniors or student leaders.

Before this group of student recruiters leaves for the holidays, they will be briefed on the program in a general meeting in Main hall auditorium Friday, Dec. 14.

Plans are being laid by the group to gather and prepare slides or motion pictures of a year's program at MSU. This material will be processed in time to be shown to high school groups all over the state during the break between winter and spring quarters.

University Pres. Carl McFarland announced that after a meeting of the board of trustees of the Endowment foundation group, he may have a statement that will give considerable impetus to the student recruitment.

The meeting, called by Reynolds, was attended by Central board members, living group representatives, and heads of a number of campus organizations.

Geologist Gives Lecture on Plains Areas

A lecture on the development and stages of the plains areas of the world was given in the chemistry auditorium Monday evening by Prof. Lester King, of the University of Natal, South Africa.

About 60 attended the talk, most of whom were faculty members and geology students.

Professor King said that by a number of studies throughout the world, he had concluded that the average rate of retreat of large cliff faces, separating one elevation from another, is about one foot every 200 years.

Using projection slides showing various topography, he explained various theories of land erosion and suggested which of them most probably held true in the majority of cases. He also pointed out that although the plains cover the largest geological period, it is the mountains that receive the greatest amount of study.

The lecture was sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Luedke Awards Homecoming Trophies Tuesday

Homecoming trophies, which arrived too late to be awarded during homecoming, were presented at a luncheon in the Student Union yesterday by Charles Luedke, homecoming manager.

The four trophies were awarded to JoMae Chase, Ronan, homecoming queen representing New hall; Donald S. Krumpacker, Valier, president of Sigma Chi, for the best house decoration; Leslie Dunlap, Lewistown, president of the geology honorary Sigma Gamma Epsilon, for the best school float; and Patricia Pattison, Glasgow, president of Alpha Phi, for the best queen float in the contest.

Montana News Roundup . . . UP

Helena, Dec. 4.—(P)—Fifty-seven-year-old Earl K. Harris, manager of the Helena airport, was found dead late this afternoon, apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. The Lewis and Clark county sheriff's office now says an inquest may not be necessary.

Miles City, Dec. 4.—(P)—Thirteen state witnesses testified in district court at Miles City today before the murder trial of Evelyn Donges and Tom La Fave adjourned until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

La Fave and Mrs. Donges, who is known as "Jerry the Wildcat," are charged with first degree murder in the fatal beating and robbing of John Hoffman of Lemars, Iowa, last Sept. 11.

Missoula, Dec. 4.—(P)—Senator Zales Ecton of Montana is in favor of the joint Anaconda Copper Mining company-Harvey Machine company aluminum plant at Kalispell proposal, according to word received in Missoula today.

The Montana Republican urged defense production administrator Manly Fleischmann to approve the proposal, which involves some 41 million dollars.

With little less than two months to grow, Mrs. Doris Luckman, Forester's ball beard contestant, seems to be seeking alternatives. Mrs. Luckman, the only woman forestry major, finds the beard contest merely a side-light compared with other forestry functions in which she is required to participate.

Honors for Sale . . .

There is still a way to get rich in the college pastures. The racket of forming "honorarys" has been scarcely exploited at all.

All that is necessary is to find yourself a buddy, round up a Greek letter combination that hasn't been used before (this will prove most difficult), and pick on some group to honor.

A warning—your honorary must have qualifying restrictions to make it attractive to prospects who will want an elite membership. Your best trick will be to profit by the experience of other honorarys and insist that the candidate have a "C" average in school and $10 in his pocket for an initiation fee.

Once your charter is handsomely embossed and you have a small following, your problems are practically over. Hundreds will clamor to have the honor of putting Sigma Phi Nothing (credit to Bibler) or Zeta Zeta Psigh behind their name.

Maintaining the program will be easy. The fall quarter program can be taken up with soliciting, convincing, and fleecing new members. Winter quarter can be turned over to a raffle or a dinner meeting. And spring quarter should see the selection of a delegate to send to a national convention.

Here is where the real break comes. If, meanwhile, you have been elected as national secretary, you are on your way to an annual annuity. To arrange a national convention, you will need a bar and a speaker. Selection of the former is most important.

If your work has been done well, the cycle will repeat itself the following year. And Zeta Zeta Psigh will find a place among the honorarys of the world.—D.W.

NEED FOOTBALL JERSEYS

Football team members who still have their jerseys are to turn them in to Carl O'Loughlin in the men's gym by this afternoon.

Kefauver Says 'Look at Facts'

Seattle, Dec. 4.—(U)—Senator Estes Kefauver, who says he may be a candidate for the 1952 Democratic presidential nomination, defended his party's policies tonight and labeled General Douglas MacArthur a "Monday morning quarterback."

Kefauver told a Jefferson-Jackson day gathering in Seattle it is of "overriding importance to look at the facts" about Korea "instead of being misled by the loose attacks of defeatists and Monday morning quarterbacks, even though they may wear five stars upon their shoulders."

Kefauver's speech was heralded by Seattle Democrats as an answer to MacArthur's address opening the Seattle centennial celebration three weeks ago. At that time the general blasted the Truman administration for "extravagance at home and abroad."

"It is interesting to note that your centennial speaker three weeks ago did not mention the United Nations once in his speech, and yet he was the first commander of that great army of the United Nations," Kefauver said.

The Tennessee senator added, "To me this indicates either lack of understanding of the role of the United Nations or a pathetic display of vanity."

Kefauver told the 600 dinner guests he often disagreed with the Truman administration policy. He said he would keep on doing so "whenever I think the country's national interest demands it."

He blamed corruption in government, business and sports to "public apathy," but credited the Democratic party with "leading the battle to expose rotten conditions and rotten officials."

Earlier, Kefauver said he would announce next year whether he will seek the 1952 Democratic presidential nomination.

DINNER MUSIC BY ROSS MILLER

Grizzly Gab

by
LEW KEIM

Coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg's Grizzly hoopers have 26 games on their schedule this season, with 11 home games, seven of which are Skyline tilts. The competition will be tough. The Skyline conference has consistently produced some of the finest hoop squads in the country. Wyoming, Brigham Young, Denver, and Utah have all attained national prominence on the hardwoods.

Skyline players of recent years who have contended for All-America berths are Sailors of Wyoming, Gardener and Ferrin from Utah, Boryla of Denver, and Hutchins and Minson from BYU. Joe Radovich, this year's Wyoming star, has been named on pre-season All-America squads, for whatever they mean.

Dahlberg is drilling his cage charges hard this week in preparation for the tall band of Idaho Vanders who will invade the Grizzlies on Monday. Sophomore Ed Anderson and junior Bud Bellis are rapping for a starting guard spot. Otherwise, Dahlberg seems to have starting positions set, with Chuck Davis and Bob Sparks at forwards, Mickey Luckman at center, and Capt. Hal Sherbeck at guard.

Aspiring Grizzly hoopers who are looking good on the second team are lettermen Bob Byrne and Don Lucas, and newcomers Jim McNaney and Rich Johnson. Dahlberg could have used Don Sankus, whose height is what the Grizzlies will lack in a conference where all boys are many. However, Mickey Luckman can jump with anyone and Chuck Davis will make any of the giants look silly.

New Mexico vacated the Skyline football cellar last Saturday in favor of the Grizzlies. They were determined not to be a cellar-dweller in their first year in the Skyline as they rose up and hauled victories from Brigham Young and Utah State. Let's hope the cellar spot proves incentive for next year's Grizzlies.

Phi Delts, SN Grab Wins

Phi Delta Theta stretched their intramural volleyball lead last night by winning games from Wesley foundation and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Sigma Nu took wins from Alpha Tau Omega and the SPE's to move into second place.

Phi Sigma Kappa copped a win from Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The Phi Sig's good net play spelled defeat for a scrappy SAE squad. The Sigma Chi's decisively downed the Bear Paws in the first two sets for a win.

The husky Sooners, composed of Grizzly football players, defeated Jumbo hall.

The closest match of the evening featured the Theta Chi's winning from the ATO's. The match went the full three sets before Theta Chi could claim the win.

MSU Grizzlies Hit Bottom

Final Skyline football standings find the Grizzlies with sole claim to the cellar position.

Until last Saturday the Grizzlies had the New Mexico Lobos for company in the tail spot of the conference, but the Lobos humbled the Utah State Aggies, 17 to 13, in their final game. The win gave New Mexico a one-win edge over the Grizzlies.

Mike Prokopiak and Chuck Hill, Lobo backs, combined their kicking and running talents to clinch the victory. Prokopiak kicked a field goal in the second quarter to climax the last scoring drive of the game.

Utah finished the season in first place, with four wins and one loss. Wyoming's tie with Brigham Young university stopped the Cowboys from finishing the season in first place. Wyoming's record of five wins, one loss, and one tie gave last year's conference champions second place.

Denver university squeezed past Colorado A and M with a final tally of four wins and three losses, to capture third place. Colorado A and M won three, lost three, and tied one game to take fourth place.

Brigham Young finished fifth with two wins, three losses, and one tie; Utah State finished sixth with two wins, four losses, and one tie; New Mexico won two and lost four; and Montana won one game (with New Mexico) and lost four.

ATO Tops Intramural Bowling

The Intramural bowling leadership changed again last Saturday. Alpha Tau Omega gained the top spot with a sweep of three game sets from both the Sigma Chi's and Corbin hall. The previous leader, Phi Delta Theta, lost two games of a three-game set with the upsurging Sigma Nu's.

Law school bowlers, who led the league early in the season, took advantage of the Phi Delt losses and moved into a second-place tie with them. The law squad took three straight from the Sigma Chi's.

Phi Sigma Kappa rolled its way up a notch in league standings. They were previously in fifth place, but a three-game sweep from Theta Chi gave them fourth place.

Sigma Phi Epsilon copped three wins from the Bear Paws and Sigma Alpha Epsilon took two of three from the Independents.

League standings—	W	L
Alpha Tau Omega	11	1
Phi Delta Theta	10	2
Law school	10	2
Phi Sigma Kappa	8	4
Sigma Nu	7	5
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	6	6
Sigma Phi Epsilon	4	8
Independents	3	6
Theta Chi	3	9
Sigma Chi	2	10
Corbin hall	2	7
Bear Paws	0	6

Phi Delt's rolled the highest team game with 856 and Phi Delt Roy Cox, for the third straight week, had the top game. He tallied 213 pins. Ferd Mehlhoff, Sigma Nu, scored the high series with 586.

AXO Takes Third In Volleyball

Alpha Chi Omega won over Kappa Alpha Theta, 23 to 18, for third place in the WAA volleyball tournament last Friday. Sigma Kappa took the consolation tournament from Delta Delta Delta, 33 to 15.

Alpha Chi and Theta played a close game with Theta one point ahead at the half, 9 to 8. Barbara Turrel, Missoula, gained 7 points for Alpha Chi and Eileen Polk, Williston, N. D., made 8 points for Theta.

Sigma Kappa ranged way out front throughout the game with a half time score of 20 to 4. Jane Gaethke, Butte, starred in the game by placing about nine spiked balls out of the reach of Tri Delta's center back, Norma Bell, Kalispell.

High scorer for Sigma Kappa was Jo Pings, Great Falls, with 9 points and for Tri Delta, Jerry Mitchell, Cranbrook, B. C., with 5 points.
